More "Hoss Talk" and More Good Horses Than the City Has Known for Years.

Track Finished and Fronounced One of the Fastest in the Country - Some of the Horsemen and Their Best Racers.

hoss talk" at the fair grounds yesterday than there has been in the vicinity of Indianapolis for years. And there was more high-bred and expensive horseflesh there than has been seen in this neck o' woods for many a day. If the millionaires of the city could only trace their lineage back as many generations as the pedigrees of the glossy animals munching bay on the old Voss farm run, Indianapolis would have an aristocracy of blood that would cast "be-Biddled" Philadelphia in the shade. All the horses that will start in this week's races are now on the ground, the list having been completed last evening by the arrival of the "strings" of Raybold, of Memphis, and "Gil" Curry, of Nashville, Tenn.

Immediately after the noon bour a procession of carriages began moving out Meridian street, and they kept up in a a three-year-old, 2:27%, and King Herod, steady stream through the blinding dust 2:21%. The latter will start in the 2:20 trot all afternoon. The grounds were crowded with vehicles of all descriptions, filled

If you do you will display your ignorance as glaringly as though you said "horse" instead of "hoss." Biazeberry, a brown mare with a mile in 2:1914 to her credit, and one of the gamest fighters on with a mark of 2.17%, is not an easy horse to beat by any means. Sam Fuller has a string of seven of the best horses Missouri has ever produced, headed by Telegram, a sorrel gelding, son of Telegraph, bearing a record of 2:134. He will be started in the free-for-all pace on Friday, and is the favorite in that race,

G. W. Bates, of Bates City. Mo., owns him. His record was won last year, and this is his first race this season. Blazeberry, Owned by N. Beamer, of Sedalia, Mo., is in this string, and will be driven by Fuller in the 2:16 trot to-morrow. Two other notable trotters in this stable are Kentucky Union, with sight-seers who swarmed about the speed-stables, examined with delight the smooth gumbo surface of the new track and speculated idly upon the outcome of the various races. It was notable that al-

The finishing touches were being put on the track vesterday, and the horsemen on the ground say they will be surprised it it does not prove by far the fastest "regular" mile track in the country. The man who discovered "gnmbo" clay, the soil with which it is surfaced, deserves a monument. It is the ideal material for a track. It has all the consistency of swamp-mud, and is thus capable of being packed hard and smooth, while it is even more "springy" than a tar pavement on a hot day. There was but little speeding on the track yesterday, as one stretch of it was not finished until late in the day, but there will be until late in the day, but there will be enty of it to-day. "That track," said Bruce Carr, last evening, "is at this minute se fast a track as there is in the United States, and it grows better every day it grows older. It is fast in every part of it, even where the dirt was put on only day before yesterday."

Next to the track the interest lay in the speed barns with their precious contents. Nearly all the celebrated stables of the West and South are represented here, and plong with the horses come drivers whose names are familiar words wherever racing in harness is popular. Harry Schultz feels s little more at home than anybody. He was a few years ago superintendent of that farm, when Aquilla Jones pwned it, is a native Indianian, and is known throughout horsedom as "Hoosier." He is here in charge of a "string" from the Abdallah stables at Cynthiana, Ky., belonging to the estate of the late W. H. Wilson, and will drive the favorite in he biggest race of the meeting-the 2:16 trot to-morrow atternoon. Mr. Schultz is horses arrived from Saginaw late last

The others are John A., 2:244; Clopton. 2:244; Cuckoo, 2::134; Red Hall, 2:254, and laleen, a four-year-old, 2:264. All these, except the last, will be started in various and speculated idly upon the outcome of the various races. It was notable that almost every carriage contained one or more ladies, and there were some of the best-known turnouts in the city on the ground. If present indications count for anything, the racing meet, particularly the opening day, will be a great social as well as a great turf event.

The finishing touches were being put on the track vesterday, and the horsemen on the ground say they will be surprised if it does not prove by far the fastest "regular" with 2:14 to his credit, is another famous with 2:14 to his credit, is another famons horse in this string. The free-for-all trot of Friday will be his first race this year. Others in the string are Natalie Wilkes. with a two-year-old pacing mark of 2:2714; Lydia Wilkes, 2:274, and Lego.

Sam Wilson has a string of five, among which are Gam ol, a five-year-old, with a record of 2:15 pat, made at Lexington, and Czar, a handsome colt of three years, who has the best three-year-old "mark" made this season in trotting, 2:22%, at Richmond last week. The latter is owned by J. J. Amos, of Rushville, and will start in the 2:25 trot on Friday.

D. J. Raybould's great string of fourteen with his strong, clean-shaven face and piercing eyes, surmounted by a white felt hat. He is neater in dress than most of his class, and indulges much less in the verpacular of the stable.

"I don't know that we will have such an easy time of it in that race." said he, re-ferring to the 2:16 trot in which he will drive New York Central. "Lord Clinton is a mighty good horse; better, I think, than Dr. Sparks. I would not anticipate The famous horse New York Central is six years old, sired by Simmons. He was broken at two years old and obtained a record of 2:47. He trotted a few races while three years old, making a record of :29%. and as a four-year-old registered :234. As a five-year-old he made it in 2:174. This year, starting in two races, he won in straight heats, obtaining a record of 2:15%. He will be started at Cleveland next week in the free-for-all and will go on through the Grand Circuit. Mr. Schultz has also West Wilkes by Simmons, with a record of 2:224; Colonel Sammons by Simmons, 2:36, and the pacer Mabel Flood, 2:25, by Pocahontas Abdailah. Dr. Sparks will not be started in the race to-morrow. The horse is still at Richmond. and word has been sent that he is sick. Other people who have horses entered smile broadly at this story of sickness, and intimate that Hook does not care to start his stallion in a rare where hers outclassed and thus lose his reputation as "undefeated." New York Central will have three firstclass competitors in the race. The second Sept. 15. Call early at 48 West Washington in favor with the betters is Lord Clinton.

entered for to-morrow's great race, Black Diamond, Bannockburn, Glide, and a numberof others with "marks" around 19 and 20. Gil Curry's string from Nashville also arrived last evening. Among them are Winslow Wilkes, 2:1434; Garnet, 2:2042; Alvin Swift, 2:1934 and Clara J., 2:22. All but Winslow Wilkes are starters.

Mrs. Mayer Comes from Milwaukee to Find Her Husband Wedded to Another.

He Deserted Her and Three Children to Marry a Young Girl-Fled to Brazit-Will Pros cute Him for Bigamy.

Last Friday Mrs. John Mayer came to this city in search of her husband, who left his wife and three children seven weeks before in Milwaukee and came to this city to complete the work on the ice machines at the Home Brewery, on wurch he had been working for some time before. Mayer first came to this city in January and boarded for some time with Louis Thieme. on East Washington street. He remained about sixteen weeks when he went to Milwankee on a visit to his family.

Since leaving the last time his wife has not heard from him. The Knights of Pythias, of which her husband was a member, made arrangements for the care of the children and furnished her transportation to this city. Friday night she stayed with Matron Buchanan, at the police station, and the case was put in the hands of the police. Information was obtained that Mayer was living at 44 Michigan avenue, and, after midnight, Saturday, Matron Buchanan, Captain Dawson and a couple of patrol-men, searched the house, but found that Mayer had gone to Brazil, Ind. The house was a three-room cottage, with only one room furnished, and that very meagerly. The occupants of the house were an old woman named Miller; her daughter, who claimed to have been married to Mayer on the 4th day of July at Brazil, a young girl who lives on English avenue, east of the Big Four tracks, and a man whose name was not learned. In the search of the house the officers found two photographs of Mayer and several letters, one of which was written by Mayer, from Brazil, to Mrs. Mayer No. 2, the daughter of Mrs. Miller. In this letter he called her all the endear-ing names known to lovers and told her to borrow $10 from "ma" and come to him at Brazil. She evidently intended to comply with the request, as most of the furniture had been packed for shipment and is now in one of the freight depots in this city.

Mrs. Mayer No. 1 is very anxious to have Mayer arrested, and says she will prosecute him for bigamy if she ever has an opportunity. Mrs. Thieme, with whom Mrs. Mayer is stay-ing, says that at about 5 o'clock yesterday morning she saw Mrs. Mayer No. 2 run out out of the house, with her mother, Mrs. Miller, in hot pursuit. She says they ran across the common and around some freight cars standing on the side-track. In a few minutes Mrs. Miller returned alone. What this chase meant she was unable to conjecture. The young wife, however, has left the city, and it is presumed that she has gone to Brazil.

FAILED IN THEIR OBJECT

Democrats Picked Up No Campaign Material in the Homestead Investigation.

They Will Denounce the Pinkertons, but Republicans Will A so Do That-Attempt to Side-Track the Tariff Issue.

GOT NO CAMPAIGN MATERIAL.

The Democratic Investigation of the Homestead Trouble Failed in One of Its Objects. tecial to the Indianapolis Journal.

WASHINGTON, July 17 .- Labor troubles are as much talked about in Washington as they are in Pennsylvania or Idaho. When the disorder began at Homestead there was a general disposition among the politicians to look at the Carnegie lockout as likely to injure the Republican cause in the national campaign. As the situation there developed, however, intelligent men on both sides began to see that there were no politics to be extracted for the benefit of either party out of the Homestead situation. Even the Democrats now acknowledge this. Representative Heard, of Missouri, one of the oldest and most sensible Democrats in the House, said to-day of the Homestead tragedy:

"I do not see how it is possible for either the Democratic or the Republican party to gain any campaign advantage from the war between capital and labor in Pennsyl-vania. Certainly neither party could afford openly to approve of the action of the men who take the law into their own hands and set up a revolutionary government. The party which would indorse such acts as those of the men at Homestead, who will not work themselves and who propose to prevent with rifles any one else from working. would destroy itself, because it would alienate the support of every man who had or hoped to have any property of his own. The Democrats have an opportunity to criticise the introduction of Pinkertons, but there is not much advantage in this politically, for the Republican party will not be behindhand in denouncing the use of hired mercenaries by capital. On the other hand the Republicans can show that Governor Pattison, after it had been clearly shown that the civil authorities were powerless to enable the Carnegie company to make use of its own property, obstinately delayed calling out the militia, thus making possible the bloody riot and loss of life of July 6. The introduction of non-union labor by the company will now be accomplished, if it is accomplished, under the protection of troops called out by a Democratic Governor."

The Democrats have displayed a wish to charge the Homestead troubles to the Mc-Kiniey tariff. But here, too, they have suddenly discovered that they had hold of the hot end of the poker. Representative Dingley, of Maine, has pointed out here, just as has Governor McKinley in Ohio, that the McKinley tariff actually reduced the duties upon nearly every article mannfactured at Homestead, and especially upon structural steel, the principal output of those mills. This point, too, was somewhat unexpectedly brought out in the congressional investigation at Pittsburg, when Burgess McLuckie bluntly told the committee that in his opinion the higher the tariff the higher the wages, and the lower the

which they were paid to make.

Another point brought out by the Homestead investigation, which has caused no little surprise and much comment at Washington, is the astonishingly high schedule of wages paid at the Carnegie mills. The remark of Mr. Boatner, a Louisiana Demoerat, who voted against the McKinley bill, "Why, those are the highest wages I ever heard of," is being echoed very freely among members of Congress. It is very evident that the Democratic members of the investigating committee, who hastened to Pittsburg and Homestead, expecting to unearth campaign ammunition which would he buried like so much dynamite against the Republican party and the protective tariff, returned to Washington keenly disappointed. They announce that they will confine their report to denouncing the Pinkerton system. This is entirely safe ground, and the single Republican member on the committee, Judge Taylor, of Ohio, will not find it necessary to write a minority report. FEAR THE TARIFF AS AN ISSUE.

Democrats Want to Make the "Force" Bill

the Leading Topic of Discussion.

WASHINGTON, July 17 .- The desperate offorts of Democratic managers to belie the tariff-for-revenue-only plank of the Chicago platform by evading the tariff as an issue and substituting what they are pleased to call the "force bill" coptinue. Last week the Democrate thought they bad done the smart thing in authorizing the printing, at government expense, of ten thousand copies of the federal elections bill as it passed the last Republican House. These copies the Democrats intend to distribute among their constituents as campaign documents. To their surprise the Republican leaders in the Senate promptly responded to the resolution by ordering the printing of iour thousand more copies for distribution by that body. The Republicans claim that they would like to have as many copies of the bill for honest elections distributed among bill for honest elections distributed among the people at large as possible. The bill, they say, speaks for itself. All the fuss and fury that were raised against it two years ago was in the nature of misrepre-sentation. It is only necessary for any in-telligent person to read the bill itself to discover that after all it is innocuous, and only provides for the more efficient enforcement of election laws aiready on the statute

Just before the sudden death of the late Senator Barbour, of Virginia, he expressed. in a conversation with Senator Manderson, of Nebraska, the real animus of the South laws.

"I am very sorry there has been so much feeling stirred up over this force bill, for it it should become a law it will take an army to enforce it in many States," said Senator Barbour.

"Why," exclaimed Senator Manderson, "it will be strictly enforced in Nebraska, and without a single soldier or barsh word. I venture the assertion that there will be no trouble in its enforcement in any State in the country. In what State do you think soldiers will be required under the bill?"

"In all of the Southern States," replied the venerable Virginia statesman.

"Why States South and not North?"

"Because, you must remember," and the Virginia Senator spoke feelingly, but kindly, as was his wont, "we have just emerged from a war in the South, and we are not yet educated up to the enforement of such laws."

The Red-Skins Thoroughly Tamed. Special to the Indiapapolis Journa'.

WASHINGTON, July 17 .- General Alexander McDowell McCook, commanding the department of Arizona, is in the city, the guest of his brother Anson McCook, Secretary of the Senate. General McCook was ordered here to consult with Secretary Elkins and General Schofield in regard to matters in his department, especially the improvement of the posts there. He says there is no longer much danger of trouble with the Indians. In fact the Indians are becoming so tame and amiable that nobody can pick a fight with them. He will leave here early in the week for New York and expects to be back at his headquarters in Los Angeles, Cal., by Aug. 1.

The President Will Return To-Day. CAPE MAY, N. J., July 17 .- President Harrison to-day entertained at dinner Gen. W. J. Sewell and Mrs. Sewell, and at tea, George W. Boyd, assistant general passenger agentofthe Pennsylvania railroad, and Mrs. Boyd. This afternoon the President and General Sewell called at the cottage of E. C. Knight, the Philadelphia sugar refiner, who remains critically ill, to inquire after his condition and pay their respects to the family. The President will leave to-morrow to return to Washington.
